drag, sweep, and area, are initially based upon a combination of experience, history, statistics, and, of course, a few quick calculations. The second half of the book covers concept analysis and optimization of the design, with emphasis on learning how the design can be improved during the next iteration. The chapter on airfoil design, which is the most important part of the book, is divided into two parts: the first part covers the design of the airfoil itself, and the second part covers the design of the wing. The design of the airfoil is a complex task, involving a large number of variables and constraints. The design of the wing is also a complex task, involving a large number of variables and constraints. The book provides a detailed and comprehensive treatment of these topics, and is a valuable resource for anyone interested in aircraft design.
